

Supporting the battle against climate change

Today, more than ever climate change has emerged as one of the most important political and business issues of our time.

Consequently, the Kyoto protocol and governments have elevated the Greenhouse Gas issue to become a leading market regulatory instrument.

Bureau Veritas can support you by validating and verifying that all your Greenhouse Gas emissions data are reliable.

The Bureau Veritas climate change offer encompasses a wide range of services for mandatory and voluntary reporting of Greenhouse Gas (GHG) emissions: validation and verification of projects under the Clean Development Mechanisms (CDM) and Joint Implementation (JI) procedures, the European Union Emission Trading Scheme (EU ETS), as well as voluntary or state-based initiatives.

At Bureau Veritas, we give you the confidence of knowing that what you do is not just done right, but is seen to be done right.
